

Wakefield Has Big Net Squad

Wakefield tennis coach Jesse Meeks doesn't expect to cut anybody from his current crop of 22 aspirants but he is conducting a round-robin tournament to decide what boys see the most action in the forthcoming season.

Meeks will probably be using a minimum of 9 boys in each match, but since the Warriors have never fielded a full-scale varsity tennis squad before the tournament will be the biggest deciding factor in how the boys are ranked.

Already several boys are beginning to display an encouraging amount of class.

Hugh Trigg won the Arlington 15 year old Tennis Tournament last year and he is expected to put his talent to work for the Warriors this spring.

Bill Lady, a lad who spends his winter months wrestling, has an excellent placement shot. He has the ability to put the ball where his opponent isn't.

Don Richards, whom the public became acquainted with on the basketball court, is rated a good all-around player and will probably see lots of action if he makes a favorable showing in the tournament.

Ronnie Heineman, another wrestler, has been busy on the tennis courts this spring and looks like starting material. Other prospects who are likely to see action include Jim Chase, Tom Hoekstra, Don Anderson, Mickey Green, Bill Hayes and Lee McCandless.

Wakefield will be playing several home games on the school's new tennis courts, with neighboring Washington-Lee due to make two trips to the Southside to challenge the Warriors this spring.
